

A color calibration strip featuring 24 individual color patches. The patches are arranged in a single row and include a range of colors from neutral grays and browns to vibrant primary and secondary colors, used for ensuring color accuracy in digital imaging.